Alex brings more than a decade of experience to the Hickey Smith team, successfully defending the interests of clients in various matters, including litigation arising from bodily injuries sustained due to motor vehicle matters, premises liability, and construction accidents. Alex has independently managed a diverse caseload of complex matters, from inception through trial.

Alex earned a Juris Doctorate from Touro College, Jacob D. Fuchsberg Law Center, in Central Islip, NY and began his legal career working on litigation matters with a concentration on document retrieval and review, pre-trial examination, and trial preparation at the Office of the New York State Attorney General, in New York, NY. He then proceeded to work for several civil litigation defense firms, where he was responsible for all aspects of his caseload, including court conferences, motion practice, depositions, and trials.

Secure with the responsibility of managing diverse case-loads, Alex handles complex legal matters with confidence and efficiency that provides results that consistently exceed clients' expectations.
